Foreman - Bug #13601

User with filtered view_organizations permission can still see all orgs in taxonomy forms.

Description

attached an image displaying the current result.
the user has a filter which allows only the Unknown org to be accessible, so the Foreman org shouldn't be on the left side of the form.
but on the top bar, only the user's organization is available.

This is a customer request, therefore I'm putting this on high priority

I think this is expected behavior, there's assign_organization permission that limits what you see in the form. It's not ideal from UX perspective, so keeping this open to address it, we should probably display only orgs that user can view and assign at the same time.
