Description
Rails 4.2 deprecates route specifications with :to when they contain only an action name, issuing warnings. They should be using :action instead.

:to specifications with "controller#action" remain valid and unchanged.

fixes #13895 - replace :to with :action in routes

Using :to with a string that doesn't contain # is deprecated since Rails 4.2, and it should instead use :action or :controller as appropriate.
