Description

I may be missing something but the first time I try and edit an array. I get the array values less the [,], & "s. I.e. just a simple comer separated string :(

If I put them back future edits are ok. Also if my Puppet modules have a blank array [] when I go to edit I lose the [] then I can edit I have to add the [,] , & " but at least the values are good after that.

If I cancel the edit I get the [] back.

This can be tested with the NTP module.

Revision b9f3561f - 06/02/2016 08:01 AM - Ori Rabin

Fixes #15246 - correctly override array params

When editing inline array params would be parsed as js objects.
This was a result of using the jquery data api.
