Description

Ohad and I spoke about this earlier, but we should setup a Jenkins instance to run tests and announce the results into #theforeman. I believe there is some hardware available to setup the instance.

I am happy to take care of this, but assigning it to Ohad for now.

Do you think we could try using openshift? <https://openshift.redhat.com/community/jenkins>

Definitely, I think that makes sense. One quick concern I have is whether or not you can use slave nodes when running on OpenShift.
