Description
running :
<pre>export MODULE_PATH="/etc/puppet/modules/common" mkdir -p $MODULE_PATH for mod in apache foreman foreman_proxy git passenger puppet tftp xinetd; do mkdir -p $MODULE_PATH/$mod wget http://github.com/theforeman/puppet-$mod/tarball/master -O - tar xzvf - -C $MODULE_PATH/$ mod --strip-components=1 done; echo include puppet, puppet::server, foreman, foreman_proxy puppet apply --modulepath $MODULE_PA TH</pre> Fails because the paths setup to download don't exist: ie http://yum.theforeman.org/stable/foreman-1.0.0-1.el6.noarch.rpm doesn't exist.

yes, this is what <https://github.com/theforeman/puppet-foreman/pull/7> is fixing this issue.

so far the installer has not been fully updated as the deb packages are not avail yet.

stay tuned and it would be updated shortly, or if you prefer to apply the patch above to get it working with 1.0.

Just and FYI

applying the patch worked on a clean install of SL6 with out any problems

Great, thanks for testing it out!

Hmm seems I spoke too soon fl Finally got a chance to check everything again and while the patch worked and the install then works perfectly. Passenger doesn't work once it is done and the puppet clients all give errors such as when running puppet agent --test my guess this is because of the wrong config.ru, if no one else would beat me to it, I'll try to fix it later today.
