Description
Hi,
I just tried to install Foreman on a Debian Squeeze which can't access the internet directly. It has access to a proxy and the 'http_proxy' environment variable is set. The package installation doesn't seem to use it though and it fails when trying to download stuff from Github (shouldn't the package be self-sufficient?).

Hi,

This is a long standing issue with the Debs, mainly due to the awesome fun that is Bundler, and system ruby packaging.

I agree they should be self-sufficient, however, at this time they are not. I have some new packaging I've been working on which works properly coming along - it should hit the nightly repo next week.

Sorry for bringing up a known issue, I didn't find it with the search engine :-/
Nice to hear a solution is on the way.

Regards

- Status changed from Assigned to Ready For Testing

The current RCs and Nightlies are now self-sufficient. Could you retest and confirm if they work for you?

#5 - 01/14/2013 10:52 AM - Greg Sutcliffe

- Target version set to 1.1

#6 - 01/21/2013 07:57 AM - Ohad Levy

- Target version deleted (1.1)

since this not a release block / required for release, I'm going to move the target version.

#7 - 05/09/2013 06:47 AM - Greg Sutcliffe

- Status changed from Ready For Testing to Closed

I've had confirmation from other sources that the Debs are now able to be installed which disconnected from the internet, so I'm going to close this one. Thanks for reporting :)
