Description
Description of problem:
The context menu dynamically changes the names of the entries based on what you selected before. This makes it hard to describe how to use the menu.
Steps to Reproduce:
1. Look to the top left under the words "Red Hat Satellite" 2. Select the menu underneath whose name depends on the current setting.
Actual results:
The menu items under Organization and Location change based on your previous selection.
Expected results:
The menu items under Organization and Location should say "Select Organization" and "Select Location" respectively.
Additional info:
Please rethink the design as the dynamic name of the menu is also not ideal, although not as annoying as the changing menu entries.

- Subject changed from Select menu for org/loc should say "Select Org/loc" not "Name of current org/loc" to Select menu for org/loc should say "Select Org/loc" not "Name of current org/loc"

This ticket refers to the actual submenu for selecting organization/location. In this case, we can see the default "Select organization" is now "The Foreman" - <https://imgur.com/a/WaVf1> - which is counter intuitive and repetitive as the current org is displayed already.
