Description
During running tests, we still schedule the CreateRssNotifications job, which can potentially collide with other tests, as well as seems to run into some issues related to code reloading.
We should not do this in test environment in the first place

Fixes #22272 - don't run CreateRssNotifications in test (#5177)

During running tests, we still schedule the CreateRssNotifications job, which can potentially collide with other tests, as well as seems to run into some issues related to code reloading.

We should not do this in test environment in the first place.
