Have same issue.

My setup:
VMWare Esxi 5.0.0 managed by VSphere (VMware vCenter Server 5.0.0.16964)
CentOS release 6.2 (Final)
Foreman 1.2 RC3

Attached files:

host-create.png (screendump, just before I hit submit, with selected network: dvPortGroup)
created-host-in-vmware.png (screendump, shows dvPortGroup (dvSwitch2) in created vm) vmware-host-edit.png (screendump, shows network changed from dvPortGroup to "VM Network" when it edit host) production.log (debug-log, for create and edit actions)

it is possible to prioritize this bug ? because it creates confusion for the users of foreman (When using vmware) they think vm's is located on wrong network and it also causes clone of an vm to fail.

- Description updated
- Target version set to 1.3.0

Hello, I can assign it to 1.3 but I am afraid we have too many bugs there already. Not sure if we are able to pick it up.

Do you have a patch or something you can contribute? That would help a lot speeding up things :-)

Dev freeze is in two weeks! If you are able to submit some code, do it quick please.

#4 - 09/16/2013 12:23 PM - Lukas Zapletal

- Target version deleted (1.3.0)
