Description
It should be possible to install Keycloak integration in a way that the installer keeps the files generated by keycloak-httpd-client-install. That also requires mod_auth_openidc to be present and loaded.

Fixes #28436 - Add keycloak support

This adds support for keycloak when using the keycloak-httpd-client-install command. A more native integration would rely on the oidc support in puppetlabs-apache, but that's unreleased.

It drops the dependency chaining for the passenger package because it was leading to dependency cycles and I don't see a reason for the explicit chaining.

Refs #28436 - Drop unused parameter

0e8621418b1eb3418066552945218cbad8d71f2d added this, but was a left over from an earlier iteration.
