Description
Formik (the React form library) has released a new major version (currently at 2.1.4) which allows use of React Hooks. We should upgrade our ForemanForm component to take advantage of this. The TextField component inside ForemanForm uses a "render" prop in the Formik &lt;Field&gt; component, which is now deprecated and was causing me some issues similar to this. Since &lt;ForemanForm&gt; is centralized in a single place, it should be relatively straightforward to do the upgrade. See https://jaredpalmer.com/formik/docs/migrating-v2
