Description

Config files might contain secrets such as credentials. Therefore they shouldn't be world readable.

The katello config is such an example and is currently replicating foreman::plugin.
commit:9c1787ad19b2cae407b25958095ecbf78757a959 removed the other reason.

Fixes #29255 - Set plugin config file mode to 0640

This sets the config file mode to 0640 by default because they may contain secrets such as credentials. To keep it readable for Foreman, the group is modified to $foreman::group.
