Description

Right now, the only way to get a host out of the "build" state is to actually install the host and complete the build. This patch adds a simple "Cancel build" option to the host page, which allows a user to manually take the host out of build state without actually going through the installation.

fixes #323 - Add a "cancel build" option

Revision 2c279147 - 11/24/2015 05:22 AM - Julien Pivotto

Improve systemd.timer integration

- Change service name to systemd-run
- Add SuccessExitStatus=2 to the service unit
- Use Array().join instead of a more complex method
- Add the ability to change the systemd service name
- Add the ability to specify different commands for systemd and cron
- Isolate systemctl-daemon-reload by adding a -puppet suffix
- Do not duplicate systemctl-daemon-reload exec definition
- Only use the systemd magic on Linux.
- Fix tests

Closes #323, #328 and #329.

- File 0001-Delay-purging-facts-and-reports-on-host-build.patch added

Since the admin can now cancel builds, might it make sense to delay purging out the facts and reports from the database?

#5 - 06/18/2010 08:48 PM - Frank Sweetser

(though that patch should probably also have a return if @spoof line in it...)
