I assume this is a new instance. Did you install plugin afterwards or from the beginning? I'm looking at the code and environments still use the old table so I'm not sure why it's not found. Debug log level may help. Do you perform this under admin or could it be permissions/taxonomies related? Also this is installer based right? The production env should be autocreated, can you check its current org/loc?

#2 - 07/22/2021 08:29 AM - Ewoud Kohl van Wijngaarden

It was a fresh instance, installed using vagrant up centos8-foreman-nightly. It should install the plugin before migrating. I also ran it as admin. I'll also note that when I ran the importer via the API (using hammer) it did work.

#3 - 07/29/2021 10:24 AM - Ondřej Ezr

Was this before or after the bump to 3.0? It works for me on the current nightlies.
