Description

After using the web UI to create a valid product/provider/repository, I then selected said repository and clicked the Sync Now button. Once I saw that the sync process was done (I was tailing logs), I reloaded the page and noticed a Finished message/link next to the repository (see attached screenshot). When I clicked on this link, I was taken to /katello/sync_management/index, which does not exist and gives me a "The page you were looking for doesn't exist" message. The correct url should be /katello/sync_management.

To reproduce it, make sure that you first select the product and then select the repository.

You also get this when an error occurs. I attempted to sync a repo with a https:// prefix but it was not exposed over https://. The new products page repo overview showed me "error" for sync status. When I clicked on that, I was taken to:

http://localhost:3000/katello/sync_management/index
