I have tested this, it is not resolved. The form for a new host continues to show "Select an owner" as the default

Yes it is true, but this new change should set the user that host is assigned to after you create it to the currently logged in. My previous change was changing it only in web template.

Interesting point, which makes more sense to you Martin? I'm wondering if we need both, since a host created through the API would find the change to the model useful, but seeing it explicitly set on the form might be best for GUI users.

Showing this for GUI users would be greatly appreciated.

I'm preparing the new change with both solutions
