You can see that a puppet run would've applied the MOTD module but there is no ability to start the run from the Foreman.

This is a configuration option that must be set individually on the Capsule that a host is connected to as well as in the puppet config for the host itself. Further, puppetrun is a deprecated feature for Puppet 3+. This may become a default when mcollective support is added, but for now due to this being a configuration choice I am closing this issue. If you feel we should be configuring all Capsules to support this feature by default, please re-open.
