

Foreman - Feature #5971

DNS information from subnet definition should be provisioned to DHCP via smart-proxy

05/28/2014 02:56 PM - David Juran

Status:	New
Priority:	Normal
Assignee:
Category:	DHCP
Target version:
Difficulty:		Fixed in Releases:
Triaged:		Found in Releases:
Bugzilla link:		Red Hat JIRA:
Pull request:
Description I've noticed that the DNS information from the subnet definition in Foreman isn't included in the DHCP entry created for the server by the smart-proxy. Instead any DNS definition one might have in the global DHCP configuration is used when servers are PXE-booted which is rather confusing.

History

#1 - 05/28/2014 02:57 PM - Dominic Cleal

- Category set to DHCP