refs #7124 - docker - downcase pulp_id when creating docker repository

Unfortunately, docker requires that repository names do not contain capital letters. More specifically, it currently requires that they consist of [a-z0-9-_.]+.

The pulp_id is currently constructed of the labels from org, env, view and repo. The label currently follows the rule, with the exception that capital letters are supported; therefore, this commit will downcase the pulp_id for docker repos.
